NOTICE TO COUNSEL IN COMPLEX CASES

On July 1, 2002, new case management rules become effective in all California courts. See generally Title Two, Chapter 2 of the California Rules of Court.

In general civil cases, Rule 212(g) requires that a case management statement be filed on Judicial Council Form CM-110 before each case management conference. Please be advised that in cases designated as complex under Rule 1800, counsel are not required to use Form CM-110.

The judges of the complex panel of the Orange County Superior Court request that counsel not use Form CM-110, preferring instead that brief status conference statements be submitted as appropriate for the needs of the particular case, and in compliance with any interim orders that may have been made concerning management of the particular case.
